

In my opinion, if a company or buisness feels the need to contact a person whom they have had dealings with in the past 18 months, they can use the USPS and send a postcard. I think NJ's law should be more strict because a few still get through. I get angry to the point that I harass the telemarketers.